The Peek Approach

At Peek we love the outdoors. We love nature, soil, water, buildings, architecture. Being outside. Good education and challenging excursions.

That is why our software and our support are not separate products. If you use Peek's software, we are happy to provide you with advice.

Would you like to brainstorm about the design of your excursion? Are you looking for inspiration to incorporate your learning goals into your trip? Or would you like to know which type of question is best to use? You can always contact one of Peek's Trip Designers.

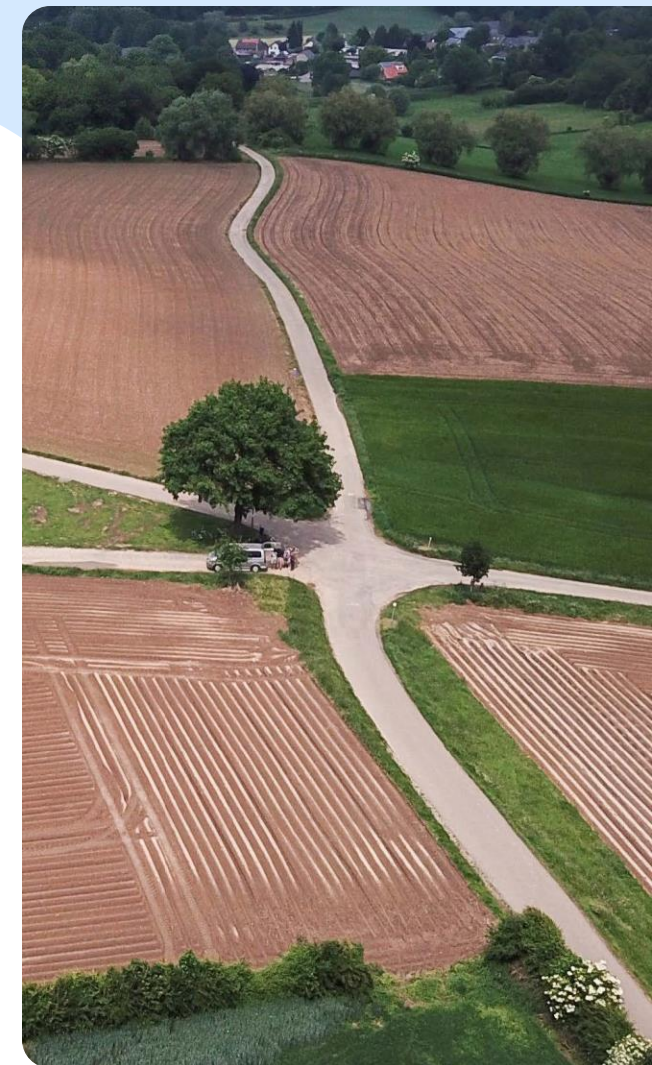

Our package prices therefore always include support.
Because we're just too excited about great excursions.

Peek pilot

The pilot package has been developed to introduce institutions and organizations to Peek in an accessible and well-guided experiment.

Your team is fully supported in the pilot by a trip designer from Peek. We share our knowledge and experience to use Peek in the best possible way. Within the pilot, you have access to all (premium) features of Peek (except the own environment with SSO).

We start with a brainstorm, and provide maximum support in developing the course or excursion. We design the full trip, or support you fully by using My Peek on your own if you wish so. We end the pilot with an evaluation, and an implementation plan (if applicable).

Trip design

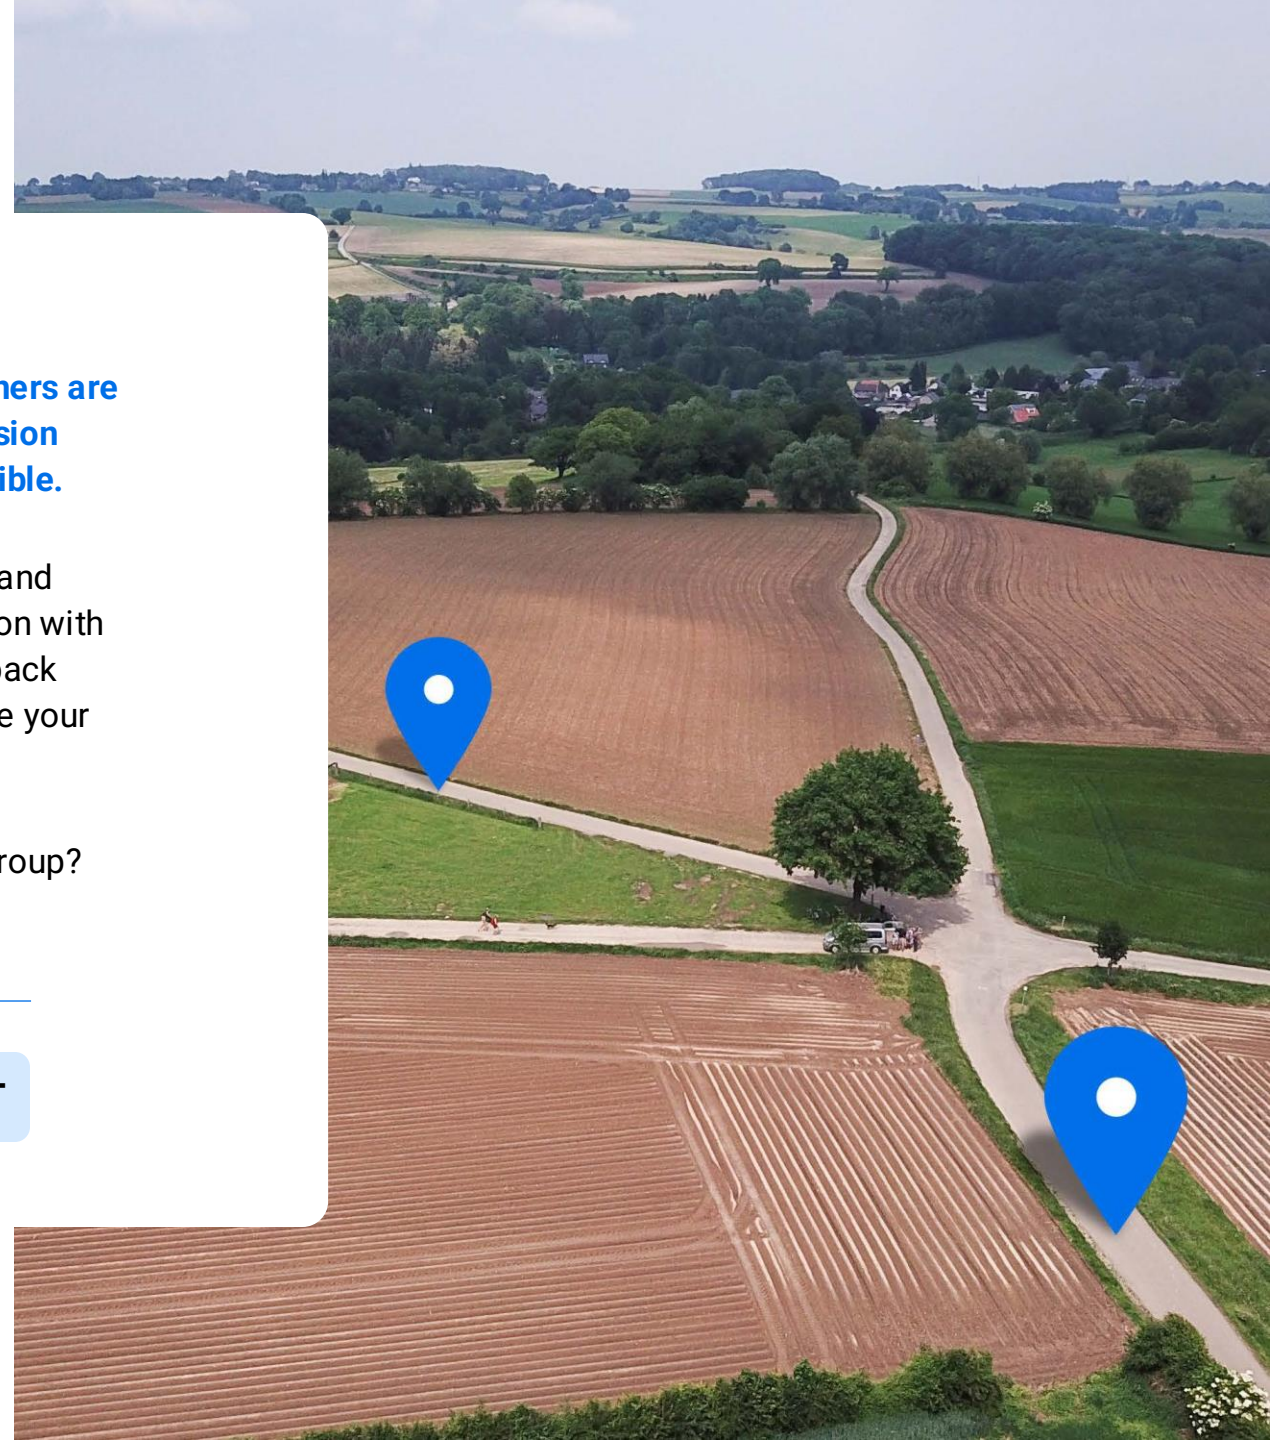

Setting up a good excursion is a serious job. Fortunately, our trip designers are experts in this, which is why we offer you option of designing the excursion completely for you. We take the extra step to unburden you where possible.

The trip designer converts your course specific learning goals into a fun and educational excursion for your students. They do this in close consultation with the experts or teachers of your organization. A brainstorm, various feedback rounds and an evaluation are part of the process. Together we make sure your trip will be a success for you and the students.

And do you want to do the same excursion again next year, with a new group? Then you are ready to go and you no longer need our help.
